Dear Red Shirt Games:

We think you have a really neat idea and we want our company to be a part of it. We've indicated our level of support by checking one or more of the boxes below and we look forward to hearing from you.

We're OK with having our company's booth represented for FREE in this really novel fashion by those well-known and respected bunch of game masters called the Ottawa Red Shirts.

We'd like to assist you by mailing to you a CD or by sending you an e-mail containing pictures of such things as:

- our company's various logos & trademarks,
 - our various products (both "in the box" and in play), and/or
 - our exhibitor booth from previous conventions.

We'd like to assist you by mailing to you a package containing any little knick knacks (in 1:18th scale, give or take) that we figure might look good in our booth. (Note that some actual product may also be of assistance, especially from those who produce terrain, like miniature boxes and such, or miniatures in 5, 10 or 15mm.)

We'd also like to provide you with promotional material and/or prize support to hand out to gamers that participate in this event.

If you need to contact us, you can do so at:

Company name: _____

Contact: _____

Phone number: _____

e-mail: _____

Sincerely: _____

Date: _____

Legal Bits:

We acknowledge that representation of our company in this event entirely subject to the discretion of Red Shirt Games. In the unlikely event that we should, for whatever reason, decide to withdraw our consent to have our company represented at this event, Red Shirt Games must remove any such representation within one week of receiving a written request to this effect.

We note that this offer does not impose any legal obligation, implied or otherwise, on Red Shirt Games or the Ottawa Red Shirts, to make use of any material sent by you or to actually represent our company at this or any other event. Selection of the companies to be represented and the materials to be used is at the sole discretion of Red Shirt Games. Any props contributed by our company become the sole property of Red Shirt Games to use or dispose of as they see fit.
